Site earmarked for teen center

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Backers of a proposed new teen center for West Sacramento held a press conference Thursday at Raley Field to announce a fund drive is underway. Plans call for the center to be built at a vacant building on the east side of Hollywood Hardware and two doors from the post office on Merkley Ave. It is just west of the Margaret McDowell senior housing complex.

The facility would likely be staffed by the Campus Life Christian organization. Supporting the effort are Dan Ramos and his family's Ramco Enterprises, the Raley/Bel Air Corporation headquartered in West Sacramento, and River City Baseball Association, owners of the River Cats.

ARTIST'S RENDERING of proposed new West Sacramento Teen Center

"It's only fitting that our first press conference be held at Raley Field, because the new ballpark reflects what's possible when a group of local people direct their energy to a community project. A West Sacramento Teen Center is long overdue, but within a year, we expect it to be a reality."

The center hopes to serve older teens in the West Sacramento area, complementing the city-sponsored Club West (near Golden State Middle School) which caters to young teens.

It is meant to provide youths with a supervised place to "hang out," including a snack bar, computer lab, billiard and ping-pong tables, life-skills training, a basketball hoop, skateboard park, big-screen TV and "sober" events on Friday and Saturday nights. The 12,000-square foot, long-vacant building includes a loft area, and skatepark in back.

Apartment project championed for Douglas/Sac. Ave.

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A Bay Area company is asking the city to rezone a parcel at Douglas Street and Sacramento Avenue to allow a 192-unit apartment complex. The proposal comes from the G.W. Williams Co., which also owns the nearby Riverbend Country Club Apartments on Douglas.

The 9.4-acre property is located at the northwest corner of the two streets, and is well-known locally as the former playing field for Washington Little League in West Sacramento.

"They have submitted an application for a general plan amendment and a rezone," reported Sandra White of the West Sacramento Community Development Dept. The application will go before the city planning commission in May or June, she said.

Tom Door of the G.W. Williams Co. explained yesterday that his company does not believe the site is appropriate to its current "community commercial" zoning, and that's one reason the company is asking for a rezone to allow apartments.

"Our feeling is that along Douglas, it's no longer a commercial corridor, and our market research indicates that there's a need not for lower income housing but for market rate apartments. That's what we're proposing."

Door emphasized his company's history and track record in West Sacramento.

"We've been in West Sacramento for over 50 years," he said. "We've had Riverbend Country Club Apartments, which is probably one of the nicer apartment complexes in the West Sacramento area. We have developed the golf course and a number of homes."

West Sacramento's Mayor Mark Montemayor said that he does not yet have details of the apartment proposal, but if he were to vote on it now, his vote would be a "no."

"I do know it's zoned for community commercial, and there's a reason for that," said Montemayor. "This is one of those issues that deserves neighborhood scrutiny. (The G.W. Williams Co.) has their work cut out for them to convince the neighbors and to get that general plan amendment through. I would worry that this could turn into low-income housing over time."

A preliminary planning commission discussion of the "Capitol Place" project is scheduled for May 17, when the commission will consider the environmental impacts of a rezone.

Southport kids compete in 'Nature Bowl'

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

Earlier this month, 17 students from Southport Elementary School participated in the annual Nature Bowl Competition, which is sponsored by the California Department of Fish and Game. The event was held at the Nimbus Fish Hatchery and was the last in a series of six competition days held throughout Northern California.

Nature Bowl is a hands-on learning program for students from 3rd through 6th grade. This year was the 16th year of Nature Bowl and elementary school students came from all over the Sacramento Valley to learn teamwork and increase their knowledge of nature.

"Last year was the first time Southport Elementary School went to the competition," explained parent volunteer Linda Petersen, who coached the team again this year, "but this time we had 17 students participate. To have that many young boys and girls put in all the time and extra effort it requires to be part of the team was really impressive and I'm very proud of each and every one of them."

This year's Nature Bowl had 21 schools competing in five different contests which tested student knowledge of environmental science.

Southport Elementary School students, ready to travel to Nature Bowl competition

"For example," said Petersen, "to prepare for the competition, our students had to learn all about the food chain and in doing so, they had to study all the different animals and plants that make up a healthy ecosystem. I think this is a wonderful way for young people to learn about nature and Southport School is really to be commended for its participation in the program."

"I definitely learned a lot about the environment by being on the team," said Petersen's 11-year old daughter, Hannah, who is in Ms. Jewel's class at Southport Elementary. "The best part was getting to compete as a team and the hardest part was when you had to stand up in front of everyone and talk about part of the solution to a problem. I think everyone on the team had a lot of fun, though, and were really glad they did it."

Southport Elementary School did so well in the Nature Bowl competition that their team has been invited to participate in the finals of the event which will be held at California State University, Sacramento on May 5th.

Ms. Joni Meyer, a second grade teacher at Southport Elementary School is the Teacher Sponsor for Nature Bowl and her help and support was instrumental in the success of this year's competition.

Council grants appeal by hotel proponents

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The proposal by property owner Suresh Patel to develop a "Holiday Inn Express" next to a gas station at the corner of Evergreen Ave. and Harbor Blvd. continues to wind a tortured path through West Sacramento's approval process.

Hotel proponents hoped to combine the hotel and gas station properties into one "planned development" unit for purposes of calculating the allowable "floor area ratios" for development, but the West Sacramento planning commission turned them down, with commission member Marino Pierucci dissenting.

But they appealed that decision, winning a "yes" from the West Sacramento City Council (with Jim Cahill voting "no" and Christopher Cabaldon absent).

Now the issue of a rezone has to go to the planning commission for a recommendation. It will ultimately return to the council in June, said city planning staff member David Tilley.

The project calls for a 55-unit, three-story "express" hotel on two-thirds of an acre at the southeast corner of Evergreen and Harbor.

'El Venado' owner sentenced on drug charges

Brandy Vega Tellez, owner of the El Venado Mexican restaurant in West Sacramento, was sentenced April 5 to over 15 years in prison for involvement in methamphetamine trafficking and money laundering. U.S. District Court Judge David F. Levi sentenced Tellez after a guilty plea, announced U.S. Attorney John K. Vincent.

Tellez, 26, also forfeited $71,720 in cash, a 1999 Lincoln Navigator and a 1963 Chevrolet Impala, as part of the plea. The property was believed link to felony activities.

Two co-defendants – William Balero, 27, of West Sacramento and Ivan Vern English, 23, of West Sacramento – were previously sentenced for their participation in a conspiracy to distribute methamphetamine. Balero received a term of 140 months, and English received 121 months. Co-defendant Armando Dagoberto Rivas, a 33-year old Sacramento man, will be sentenced tomorrow for involvement in drug trafficking.

Court documents say Tellez distributed the drug since 1997, turning the business over to Balero (his brother in law) in early 1999 "because he feared the strict sentences that are imposed on methamphetamine traffickers," said the U.S. Attorney's office.

In August, 1999, law enforcement agents watched a meeting between Tellez, Balero, English and Rivas at a Sacramento McDonalds. They reported that English leave the meeting and retrieve a duffle bag from the trunk of Balero's vehicle, then place it in Rivas's vehicle. Rivas then left with the vehicle. A stop by the C.H.P. turned up the duffle bag with 20 pounds of methamphetamine.

The case was investigated by the Yolo Narcotic Enforcement Team, California Bureau of Narcotic Enforcement and U.S. Customs Service.

Longtime planning commissioner Paul Carney dies at age 80

Paul Carney, a longtime member of the Yolo County and West Sacramento planning commissions died on April 14. A resident of West Sacramento for 42 years, he also worked on the Incorporation Committee that successfully made West Sacramento into a city.

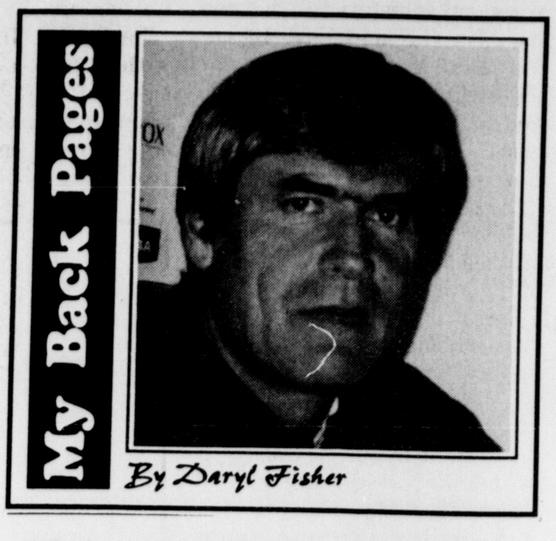
Mr. Carney died at Sutter General Hospital. Survivors include his wife of 54 years, Mary Lou, and several children. He was a decorated W.W. II veteran of the Marines in the Pacific campaign.

He retired from the Sacramento Post Office in 1984.

A Mass is scheduled for 10 a.m. today at Holy Cross.

Further details will be in next week's News-Ledger obituary.

Shopping for new clothes is nothing but torture



Note: I was recently informed by my family that there was no way I was getting out of attending the marriage of one of my cousins later this spring. I immediately pleaded my usual excuse in these kinds of matters -- I don't have anything appropriate to wear -- but was quickly told, "That isn't going to work this time around -- you're going!"

"But that means I'll have to go shopping for a bunch of new clothes I'll probably never wear again in my whole life," I cried out to deaf ears.

"Daryl," explained my wife without the least bit of compassion, "believe it or not, shopping for new clothes can actually be fun."

"Oh no it isn't!" I cried out even louder as I hurried off to locate the following 1994 column to help prove my point.

My wife and daughter cornered me awhile back and politely suggested that maybe it was time for me to consider updating my wardrobe.

"What are you talking about?" I asked them with genuine surprise. "I've got plenty of everything I need."

"But Dad," my daughter tried to explain tactfully, "that's part of the problem! You've got plenty of all the wrong things."

"Look," I said, "it's probably true that I don't have to live in fear of being named one of the best dressed men in West Sacramento, but I'm perfectly happy with my clothes, thank you very much. What's the big problem?"

"Let's see, where should we start?" my wife asked my smiling daughter.

"How about with those ugly shoes of his?" she answered. "Then we can work our way up from there."

"And just what's wrong with my shoes?" I asked.

"Well, to begin with," said my wife, "you've only got one pair, and Lord knows how old they are."

"A person can only wear one pair of shoes at a time," I reminded her. "And unlike some people I know, I shine my shoes from time to time and that makes them look as good as new. And just because you two have closets with shoes stacked up to the ceiling doesn't mean I should. Plus I'll have you know that I have two pairs of shoes -- you forgot to count my Reeboks."

"Which are even older than your dress shoes," said my wife, shaking her head.

"And what about your pants, Dad?" asked my daughter. "That's what really bothers me."

"But I have tons of pants."

"But except for that one pair of blue jeans, they're all cords!" she exclaimed with horror. "Black ones, grey ones, brown ones, even a pair of white ones. I actually had a dream the other night that I got married and you gave me away wearing your white cords."

"You're making that up," I said.

"And when's the last time you bought yourself a new work shirt?" asked my wife.

"Summer's here," I said. "Who needs a bunch of new shirts? I'm going to be wearing T-shirts for the next two or three months."

"Dad," said my daughter with exasperation, "you don't even own a suit."

"But I've got a couple of sports coats," I said in my defense.

"And the slacks you wear with them are so old they shine," said my wife.

The fact of the matter is that I have never quite understood the importance most people (especially women) place on their clothes. In the summer when it's hot, we don't really even need them, and in the fall and winter, as long as they keep me warm and comfortable, I don't much care what they look like.

It seems to me that almost everything to do with clothes is designed to make a person miserable. First, you have to purchase them. That means you have to hang around in crowded malls where you can never find a parking space, where the help is usually rude and too busy to wait on you, and where there's so much to choose from I can never make up my mind what to buy.

If you finally do find something you like, you have to try it on, which means disrobing in a strange place with curtains that never fully close and struggling with a bunch of tags, buttons, zippers, hangers, and very cleverly hidden sharp pins. And then, without your shoes on, you have to wander around in search of a young girl half you age and ask, "Do you think this fits?" They always say 'yes', even if you've selected something a size or two off, and assure you that everything will be just fine once you wash it a few times.

I also used to ask the saleslady, "And how do you think this looks on me?", but then one day it dawned on me, what is the poor woman going to say, "Well, sir, that particular shirt and pair of pants you've selected are butt ugly and they actually make you look like a bloody clown!"

Anyway, over the years, I have found it much easier and less time consuming to simply find one kind of shirt and pants I like, memorize the size that fits, and every four or five years, buy a half-dozen or so of them in different colors. It works for me, and makes the whole clothes shopping process a lot less intimidating.

Most of the women I know, however, seem to see shopping for clothes in a completely different light. They actually look forward to it, plan whole days (even weekends) around it, and in some extreme cases, turn it into kind of an art form. They painstakenly match colors to produce coordinated outfits, pick out just the right pair of shoes and other accessories to bring the whole thing together, and can even somehow figure out if a dress actually fits by just holding it up on its hanger in front of them.

I'm afraid it all goes way over my head, but as Jerry Seinfeld once said, "How can you hope to understand people who can pour hot wax on their legs, rip the hair out by the roots, and still be afraid of a spider?"

Note: *To date, the Grace K. Ohlson Scholarship Fund has received 97 donations for a total of $8,645. The goal is to raise a $10,000 endowment with the interest earnings being used to support a $500 annual scholarship for Washington Unified School District graduates who plan on attending a college in the Los Rios Community College system. SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

The Sacramento Kings enter the 2001 Playoffs with best home record in the NBA with 31 wins and only 8 home court losses. The Kings 110-100 victory over Vancouver on Monday night tied the 1963-64 Cincinnati Royals record for wins with 55. The Kings can set a new record (56) with a win in the season finale at Denver on Wednesday (6 p.m.-ch.31) night. The Kings still have slim chance at winning the Pacific Division after losing two heartbreaking road games last week. The Kings stunned the San Antonio Spurs with an overtime victory last Thursday but lost the next day to playoff bound Dallas and again on Sunday night to Phoenix. If the Lakers lose to Denver on Tuesday night the Kings can win the Pacific Division with a victory in Denver.

The playoff picture looks like the Kings will win the third seed and face either Phoenix or Portland in the best of five series. As of Tuesday morning both Portland and Phoenix are tied for the sixth and seventh spot with 50 wins and 31 losses. This is the first time in NBA history that seven teams in the Western Conference playoffs have at least 50 wins! Utah (52-28) and Dallas (52-29) are going down to the wire for the fourth and fifth seed. The fourth seed will have the home court advantage in the first round. The Suns wrap up the regular season at home against Utah and the Trailblazers finish their season at home against San Antonio.

The Lakers will finish no lower that the third seed and will host the eighth seed either Portland or Phoenix. The San Antonio Spurs, who have nailed down the No. 1 spot and clinched the home court advantage for the playoffs, will host the Minnesota Timberwolves in the best of five series.

If everything goes as planned for the Kings in the first round guess who the Kings would play in the second round? If you guessed the winner of the Lakers series you were right! Wouldn't that me great in Sacramento, the Shaq and Kobe show at the Arco in the best of seven games!

A limited number of Kings playoff tickets (two per person) for the first two games will go on sale at 10 a.m. Friday. Tickets are available at the Arco Arena box office, Ticketmaster outlets or you can go on the web at www.ticketmaster.com.

What is going on down in Los Angeles with those young Clippers winning and playing before a franchise record 11th sellout crowd? The Clippers won 31 games this season and have been selling out (19,347) the Staple Center this season. Look out for the Clippers next season!

In the Eastern Conference the 76ers (55-25) have the home court advantage throughout the playoffs while Milwaukee, Miami and New York follow in that order. Toronto, Charlotte, Orlando, Indiana finish out the rest of the best in the East. Starting next week I'll have my picks for the NBA's best of seven conference semi-finals.

The Giants (7-5) are home for a long 12 game home stand starting on Tuesday night with a three game series against them darn Dodgers. The Dodgers (7-6) won 2 out 3 from the Giants last week in Los Angeles. The Milwaukee Brewers will visit Pacific Bell Park for a three game series this weekend followed by the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs. Barry Bonds will be out clubbing this week for his historic 500th home run. The Oakland A's (3-10) are on the road playing in Disneyland against the Angels and finish up the road trip this weekend against A-Rod and the Rangers in Texas.

The River Cats (8-4) are on the road this week in Canada and still lead the Southern Division of the Pacific Coast league by 1 game over Tucson. The Gatos return home for another 8 game home stand starting on Saturday night against Tacoma. Tickets are still available for this home stand by calling 371-HITS or just stop by the Raley Field ticket office.

The NFL draft is coming up this weekend but don't expect the 49ers or Raiders to make any big blockbuster trades. The 49ers are famous for trading down to pick up extra players at bargain basement prices while the Raiders have already filled their need for a running back with the signing of ex-49er Charlie Gardner. Gardner will fill in for the retired Napoleon Kaufman.

Last year Niners wound up with 11 picks on Draft day and seven of them became starters at one time or another. This year they have seven picks including two of the first 41 of the draft.

The Raiders currently owns eight picks in the first seven rounds. Its sixth-round selection was traded to Seattle, but Oakland picked up a pick in the sixth round in a trade with Indianapolis.

See ya next week!

A No-Sugar Solution Sweetens The Options

(NAPS)—There's sweet news for anyone who has ever wanted to eat healthier and shed unwanted pounds.

Dieters don't have to give up the sweet things they enjoy and find it difficult to live without.

"The challenge has been how to get foods to taste good and be healthy for us at the same time," said Hope Warshaw, a dietitian and author of The Restaurant Companion.

Fortunately, new sweeteners, such as Splenda, can be a sweet way to be good to yourself. More and more products contain this no-calorie sweetener.

"Splenda is made from sugar, so it tastes like sugar, however, the body doesn't recognize it as sugar so it has no calories," said Warshaw.

Products that contain Splenda now include Blue Bunny Lite 85 Yogurt. Great as part of a light meal or as a snack, Lite 85 has no added sugar and is said to be delicious.

"Splenda really brings out the taste of the fruit and the other ingredients in Lite 85," said Warshaw. "And because it contains no sugar and less carbohydrates it's perfect for people with diabetes too."

The new Lite 85 with Splenda is the first yogurt to be made with the new sweetener and it's available in 19 flavors. The yogurt is a great topping for fresh fruit or can be an ingredient in recipes, such as Pina Colada Scones and Key Lime Yogurt Parfait.

Sweet News: New sweeteners make recipes like Key Lime Parfait delicious and light in calories.

Pina Colada Scones

2½ cups all-purpose flour
¼ cup Splenda granular no-calorie sweetener
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 cup Blue Bunny Lite 85 Pina Colada Yogurt
¼ cup egg substitute
¼ cup crushed pineapple, juice packed - (undrained)
1 teaspoon coconut extract
Confectioner's sugar (optional)

In a large bowl, combine dry ingredients; mix well. In a medium bowl, combine remaining ingredients except confectioner's sugar. Add to flour mixture; stirring just until moistened. Turn onto a lightly floured surface; knead three or four times. Divide dough in half; place both halves 8 inches apart on a greased baking sheet. Pat each portion of dough into 6½-inch circles. Cut each circle into 6 wedges, leaving wedges together. Bake at 425° for 12-14 minutes or until golden. Sprinkle with confectioner's sugar, if desired. Serve warm, plain or with your favorite preserve.

Key Lime Yogurt Parfait

¾ cup Splenda granular no calorie sweetener
¼ cup cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups cold water
¼ cup egg substitute
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 container (6 ounces) Blue Bunny Lite 85 Key Lime Pie Yogurt
1 drop green food coloring (optional)
6 tablespoons low-fat granola (without raisins) or graham cracker crumbs
Fresh lime twists for garnish (optional)

In a small saucepan, combine the Splenda, cornstarch and salt. Whisk in the water, egg substitute, lime juice and lemon juice. Bring to a boil over medium heat, whisking constantly for 1 minute. Remove from heat and let cool 15 minutes, uncovered. Stir in the Blue Bunny Key Lime Yogurt and food coloring. Spoon ¼ cup of the mixture into individual parfait glasses. Top each with a rounded tablespoon of granola or graham cracker crumbs. Top each glass with an additional ½ teaspoon of granola or graham cracker crumbs and chill well. Garnish each glass with a lime twist before serving.

Visit www.bluebunny.com to learn more about Blue Bunny Lite 85 Yogurt.

Church members visit Nepal

Four West Sacramento residents from the First Baptist Church just returned from a two-week missions trip to Nepal where they distributed children's teaching materials to some 150 Nepalese pastors. They also visited a number of orphanages, presented puppet shows, organized craft-making, taught children how to create balloon artistry, and met with the Nepali man who is the sole producer of the only children's Sunday School materials available in Nepal.

While in Nepal, the group also got to fly over the Himalayas and view Mt. Everest, take an elephant ride into the Nepali jungle, and photograph wild white Rhinocerous.

There are plans for future missions trips to Nepal and anyone interested in participating can contact Diane Clements at the church, 371-4061.

Local 4-H kids create Easter baskets for homeless children

Norwood 4-H's Pangolin Community Service Project recently made Easter baskets for the homeless children at Mustard Seed School. Inside the large baskets were Easter candy, stuffed animals, key chains, paddleballs, activity books, crayons, pencil sets and bubbles.

There are more than 70 members in the Community Service Project Group and in the past they have participated in skits at the Clarksburg and Arthur F. Turner libraries, collected food for the homeless, cleaned books, and performed other community service work.

For those interested in viewing other projects from this group, they will be on display at the 4-H Spring Show in Woodland on May 4-6. A large number of the project's youth are from West Sacramento and Clarksburg.
